Clibrans' List of Roses.

"Blow like sweet roses in this summer air."

—"Love's Labour Lost," V., 2.

THE QUEEN OF FLOWERS.

The Rose, "England's Floral Emblem," is, in its various forms, probably the widest-known and most-loved flower on earth. Ancient writers have told of its charms; the earliest poets sang its praises. Small wonder for a bloom that has retained its popularity through the ages to stand to-day as the "Queen of Flowers."

ROSES ANCIENT AND MODERN.

What would have been said by the early admirers of the Rose could they have seen the many gloriously-beautiful forms that are in existence to-day? Every desirable feature of the Rose has been enhanced and further improved by the skill and untiring patience of the Hybridist. New forms have been brought into existence that are of stronger and improved constitution and growth, more profuse in bloom, richer and purer in colour, and intensified in fragrance; a type or series of types that was unknown to the ancient.

THE ADAPTABILITY OF ROSES.

So many and so varied are the different types of Roses that it is now possible to select forms that are adapted for any purpose—highly-refined, delicate blooms for cultivation indoors, or in a favourable situation outside; dwarf-growing, free-blooming sorts, naturally adapted for bedding purposes, producing a long and continuous display of bloom. Other varieties remarkable for producing flowers of faultless form and outline; varieties of climbing habit for covering walls, fences, pergolas, &c.; strong-growing, hardy sorts, of rambling habit, that delight in growing over rocks, ledges, rough banks, and similar positions. Other sorts adapt themselves for growing as hedges, and so on.

SELECTION OF SORTS.

We have endeavoured in the following pages to include all varieties that are of real merit, excluding those that cannot with confidence be recommended. This has necessitated the discarding from our Collection very many varieties that do not reach the standard of merit we consider needful.

ACRES OF ROSES.

Eight acres of land devoted to the cultivation of Roses is undoubtedly a large area; we find, however, that it is not large enough to cope with the heavy demand we experience, season by season, for our plants. It is an accepted fact that Roses grown in the North of England are possessed of a stronger constitution, and invariably succeed better when transplanted to another place than do Roses grown in the more Southern parts of the country. To this fact, together with the results attendant upon the special care that is bestowed upon every detail connected with our Rose Department, we attribute our huge output. Our Nurseries are open for inspection by any of our friends. We shall be pleased to make arrangements for a conveyance to meet the train, either at Hale or Altrincham Station, upon receiving intimation of the proposed visit a few posts in advance.

Roses.

Brief Directions as to Culture, &c.

A SITUATION apart from other flowers is preferable. It should be sheltered from high winds, but still open and not surrounded closely by trees or shrubs. Heavy clay or very damp soils must be well drained, as the roots will not thrive in sour soil, and in such situations it is advisable to keep the bed above the surrounding level. S., S.E., or S.W. aspect is advisable.

SOIL.—A heavy loam, which feels greasy when pressed, is the best. Briars require heavier soils than other Rose Stocks. All light soils may be improved by adding stiff loam or clay which has been pulverised by frost.

PLANTING.—November is the best month, but any time will do until the end of March. Roses on Manetti or La Grifferaie Stocks should be planted 3 inches or 4 inches below where they are budded, but on Briar Stocks the union should be level with the soil. If planted in a border, do not be afraid of making a large hole, nor of stirring the soil too much, and be careful that the manure is thoroughly mixed with the compost or soil and not put close to the stems or roots. Plant firmly; mulch the surface with about 3 inches of manure, and fork that in about March. Cow manure is best for hot, light soils, but stable manure is very suitable if well rotted and used liberally.

PRUNING.—Brief instructions regarding pruning will be found under the various headings in the different sections.

WATERING.—In dry weather, when coming into bloom, this should be done two or three times weekly; a thorough drenching, not a mere surface wetting should be given. Liquid manure, weak, ought to be used about every ten days.

INSECTS.—The first is the Rose Maggot, in early Spring, and hand-picking is the only remedy. Green Fly must be checked by syringing or dipping the ends of the shoots in a solution of Lemon Oil, Tobacco Water, or some other approved insecticide. A good syringing daily helps to keep insects down.

MILDEW.—Dust the foliage with Flowers of Sulphur as soon as the mildew appears. If the leaves are dry the plants should be syringed before the sulphur is applied.

The National Rose Society's Special Selections of ROSES For Various Purposes.

WE have pleasure in offering the following special collections of Roses selected by the National Rose Society as being the best varieties for the purposes stated that have as yet been introduced, or that have been in commerce sufficiently long to allow of their being thoroughly tested.

The members of the N.R.S. in their corporate capacity form the most expert, competent, and unbiased authority on Roses in this country. On these grounds we feel sure that our friends will appreciate the opportunity of acquiring the selections that are here given.

Brief colour descriptions are given; for more complete descriptions, see body of Catalogue.

The letters immediately following the name indicate the class to which the variety belongs, thus: (H T) indicates Hybrid Tea; (T) Tea Scented; (H P) Hybrid Perpetual; (C) China; (N) Noisette; (H N) Hybrid Noisette; (Cl. Poly.) Climbing Polyantha; (S) Single; (H C) Hybrid China; (Wich.) Wichuraiana; (Ayr.) Ayrshire; (Rug.) Rugosa.

NOTE.—All the plants offered are strong and well matured, from open ground. Carriage Paid and Packing Free.

Hybrid Perpetual Roses.

(Rosa damascena hybrida.)

This group is one of the finest and best known of all; they are mostly hardy, of vigorous growth, and bloom freely from June to November. The flowers are very beautiful, highly fragrant, and embrace almost every shade of colour except yellow and blue. If the best results are desired, good cultivation is essential. Plant in a deep, rich, well-manured soil, and water freely during dry weather. For garden decoration, exhibition, pot culture, and forcing during Winter they are magnificent.

PRUNING.—H.P.'s should be pruned during the month of March, or in cold backward districts early in April. Cut away at the base all dead, weakly, and unripened growths, likewise shoots that cross one another. The remaining shoots should then be cut back to within 2 to 4 eyes if required for exhibition purposes; if for garden display they may be left a little longer, say from 4 to 6 eyes. In a general way varieties that are weak growers require to be pruned hardest, i.e., near the base; the stronger growing sorts require to be pruned less severely. Always cut to an eye pointing outwards.

Climbing Varieties require but little pruning beyond thinning out the shoots where too thick and removing those that are more than two years of age, in order to make room for the younger growths.

We make special collections for smoky districts, for cutting purposes, show blooms, &c. See pages 4 to 10 for sorts, prices, &c.

Hybrid Tea-Scented Roses.

These are seedlings from Teas, crossed with Hybrid Perpetuals. They are the most perpetual of all Roses for blooming, commencing early in the season and continuing until late autumn. For exhibition purposes, garden decoration, and forcing they are eminently suitable, and as such are the most popular Roses of the day. They embrace some glorious colours, and many of them are very fragrant. Pruning should be done in a similar manner to that recommended for H.P.'s on page 13.

Choice New and Recent Varieties.

Tea-Scented and Noisette Roses.

Tea-Scented Roses (R. indicata odorata).—Tea Roses are an important class, and justly admired for their delicious fragrance and delicate tints of colour. For planting out in Conservatories, for forcing, or for pot culture under glass, they are unequalled, and with good cultivation a plentiful supply of flowers may be had throughout the season. To be successfully grown out of doors they must be planted in the warmest and sunniest parts of the garden, in a well-drained, light, rich soil, and given an abundant supply of water during the hot weather, and slightly protected from frost in severe Winter with fern, fir, or furze branches. A sure and safe plan of wintering Teas outdoors is to earth up the plants like celery to about 9 inches high, removing the soil in April. Prune in April in a similar manner to that recommended for H.P.'s and H.T.'s.

Noisette Roses (R. moschata Noisettiana).—The Noisettes are a class of Roses flowering mostly in clusters throughout the Summer and Autumn, and are generally very free bloomers. Many make fine Pillar Roses. In pruning them the old wood should be thinned out, and the new wood left nearly full length. The vigorous growers are well adapted for Climbing, Pillar, or Weeping Roses, flowering freely late in the year. This section, like the Teas, is well adapted for pot culture, also for outdoor cultivation in favourable situations.

A NEW RACE.

(Wichuraiana X Teas.)

DWARF AND PERPETUAL BLOOMING.

These new Roses are interesting, as they are the outcome of crossing two distinct types, the Wichuraiana and Tea. They are of dwarf habit, some of them semi-prostrate, and well adapted for covering the ground beneath taller-growing Roses or other plants.

- 2006 Agate, small yellow flowers; dense shining foliage; dwarf prostrate habit; excellent for an edging or covering the surface of the ground. 5/- each.
- 2025 Amber, amber, opening to pale straw; single dwarf, free and effective; very pretty. 5/- each.
- 2318 Iceberg, pure white, small; perfect form, free and continuous; excellent bedding habit. 5/- each.
- 2806 Topaz, yellow, passing to amber; a splendid little plant for carpeting; free and continuous. 5/- each.

Climbing Roses.

The varieties comprised in this class are undoubtedly amongst the most beautiful and useful of all Roses. Their vigour of growth and profuseness of bloom have made them of the greatest value for clothing pillars, Pergolas, Arches, Summerhouses, and similar structures; for covering banks, forming fences, and a great variety of other purposes for which a plant of creeping, climbing, or rambling habit is required. The colours range from the purest white to the most intense crimson. The formation of the flowers varies from single in varieties such as Blush Rambler and Hiawatha to perfectly double such as the varieties Crimson Rambler, Dorothy Perkins, and many others.

The "Wichuraiana" section to which the well-known and beautiful Dorothy Perkins belongs, is the hardiest and most vigorous of all climbing Roses; they are also remarkable for the wonderful freedom with which the flowers are produced.

PRUNING.—Climbing Roses in general should be pruned immediately after flowering, cutting out the growths that have bloomed, thus leaving the plant to devote its strength to the development of the young shoots that are to produce flowers the next season.

The different classes are indicated thus: Wichuraiana (Wich.); Climbing Polyantha (Cl. Poly.); Boursalt (B); Ayrshire (A); Evergreen (E).

NOTE.—Several other Roses of climbing habit will be found in the H.P., T., and H.T. sections.

- 3232 Paul's Carmine Pillar, single, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 inches across, bright rose carmine, in trusses in great abundance; sweetly scented; perfectly hardy.
- 3235 Paul's Single White, a fine Pillar Rose, growing rapidly; best shaped of the single varieties.
- †3242 Philadelphia (Cl. Poly.) (A.M., R.H.S.), an American introduction, stated to be an improvement on Crimson Rambler; possessing larger and more double flowers of a brighter colour that does not fade; the flowers are also said to last longer; recommended either for forcing or outdoor cultivation. We have no doubt but it will prove a striking and valuable acquisition.
- 3248 Pink Roamer (Wich.), single, nearly 2 inches across; rich bright pink and orange red stamens.
- 3252 pomifera (Apple Bearing Rose), attractive flowers and fruit; it is on account of the latter that it is generally grown, their large size and fine scarlet colour render them attractive.
- 3255 Psyche (Cl. Poly.), pale rosy pink, suffused at base of the petals with salmon and yellow, in trusses.
- 3262 Purple East, rosy carmine and vivid purple; semi-double, from 3 to 4 inches across. Makes 12 to 16 feet of growth in a season.
- †3270 Queen Alexandra (Cl. Poly.) (Gold Medal, R.H.S.), a cross between Crimson Rambler and Rosa multiflora simplex; rich rose single flowers produced in large clusters, similar to Crimson Rambler; strong, vigorous, and free.
- 3275 Queen of the Belgians (A), pure white; double.
- 3280 Rampante (R), pure white; very free.
- 3286 Rene Andre (Wich.), bright saffron yellow with orange red base, passing to pinkish white, veined carmine red; semi-double, produced singly or in clusters of 3 or 4 flowers.
- 3294 Rubin (Cl. Poly.), a bright ruby, beautifully contrasting with the dark foliage; perfectly hardy and resists fungus diseases.
- 3299 rubra, single; bright scarlet, tinted orange red, white at the base of the petals, orange red stamens; $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 inches diameter, in large clusters.
- 3304 Ruga (A), pale flesh; large and double.
- 3314 splendens (Myrrh-scented) (A), flesh white; semi-double.
- 3321 Tausendschon (Cl. Poly.), (see illustration, page 49), a lovely Rose, producing soft pink or rose flowers of large size; a charming colour; strong grower, and very free; quite distinct from all other Climbers. 1/6 each.
- 3325 Tea Rambler, deep coppery-pink, passing as the flowers expand to soft salmon pink, in clusters, sweetly scented.
- 3329 Thalia (Cl. Poly.), The White Rambler, pure white; similar in growth to Aglaia, but trusses much larger.

SPRING HILL, MILLER'S DALE,
NR. BUXTON,
28th August, 1909.

"I should like to mention that my gardener tells me (I was away at the time) that he has never seen finer Roses than those on the 'Climbing Frau Karl Druschki' I had from you. I think this remarkable considering that this house is 1,100 ft. above sea level and the awful weather that we have had.

"Another Rose I had from you which is giving me great satisfaction is 'Dorothy Perkins.' This is now a mass of bloom, and is admired by everybody."

J. SEABROOK.

PLAS GLYN,
RUABON,
23rd November, 1908.

"I herewith enclose cheque in payment of Roses; we are much pleased with the 'Dorothy Perkins' you sent.

"I am also enclosing order for Roses, and shall be obliged by your giving the same your early and best attention.

"I may add that those we had from your firm last year gave every satisfaction."

SARAH PARRY JONES.

China and Dwarf Polyantha Roses.

China Roses.—These roses are well adapted for growing in small pots or for planting in beds on lawns, or in any situation where a constant succession of flowers is desired. They are all tolerably hardy, and of moderate growth. They succeed best in warm, dry soils, with a moderate dressing of well-decayed manure and leaf mould once a year. Thin out the smaller shoots, and prune moderately about the beginning of April. For protection in severe Winters a covering of 4 or 5 inches of cocoa-nut fibre refuse is the best material that could be used.

Polyantha Roses, often called "Fairly Roses."—These are extremely interesting, and admirably adapted for pot culture; flowers small and borne in clusters, very pretty for conservatory (contrasting very effectively with other flowering plants), and also good for outdoor beds and borders, their lovely miniature double flowers showing well against the massive blooms of the popular H.P.'s. A bed of "Polyantha Roses" in variety with the old blush or crimson China will provide a beautiful sheet of colour for many weeks.

Pruning.—China and Polyantha Roses should be pruned in March, thin out the growths where too crowded and cut the strongest back. Apart from this, little or no pruning is necessary.

China Roses are marked (C), Dwarf Polyantha Roses (P).

 3546 Katherine Zimet, pure white, small but full; very sweet; a beautiful variety.
 3550 Laurette Messimy (C), rose pink, tinted with bronze yellow.
 3557 Leonie Lamesch (P), the bud is vivid coppery red, flower bright coppery red with golden centre, produced singly or in bunches of two to five in great profusion; vigorous, growing about 18 inches high.
 3566 Little Pet (White Pet) (C), pure white, in clusters, one of the best; always in bloom; fine for windows.
 3573 Madame E. A. Nolte (P), chamois yellow, changing as the flower opens to rosy white; small flowers; very free.
 3575 Mme. Eugene Resal (C), rosy pink, shaded orange; very free.
 3580 Madame N. Levasseur (P), in colour, form of flower, and truss it is a counterpart of the well-known Crimson Rambler, but unlike that variety it does not climb; rarely exceeds 1 foot in height; an almost perpetual bloomer, flowers continuously from May until Autumn; a charming variety either for pot culture, bedding, or other similar purposes.
 3585 Marie Pavle (P), pale flesh, of medium size; pretty and attractive.
 3591 Mignonette (P), rosy pink; really beautiful as a miniature Rose.
 3598 Mrs. Bosanquet (C), delicate pale flesh, waxy; free blooming.
 3604 Mrs. W. H. Cutbush (P), double pretty delicate pale pink, in large trusses of 15 to 20 flowers of good size, dwarf non-climbing.
 3611 Perle d'Or (P), nankeen yellow, orange centre, novel and distinct.
 3614 Phyllis (P), a charming dwarf Rose attaining a height of about 2 feet, producing bright carmine pink flowers in trusses; a fine variety for bedding or pot cultivation; a continuous bloomer from June until the Autumn frost. 1/- each, 9/- doz.
 3619 Queen Mab (C), soft rosy apricot, centre of flower shaded orange, outside tinted rose and violet; a capital button-hole rose.

Bourbon and Hybrids of Chinese and Bourbon Roses.

Bourbon Hybrids.—Hybrids between the gallica, centifolia, &c., and the Chinese and Bourbon. They thrive in almost any soil, are perfectly hardy. These varieties are indicated by (B II) immediately following the name.

These Roses bloom on the side growths of shoots two and three years old, consequently beyond thinning as required, little should be done in the way of cutting back. They make excellent bushes.

Plants from ground, 9d. each, 7/6 per dozen; in pots 1/6 each, 15/- per dozen.

Varieties marked (†) can be supplied in 7 inch pots with long growths, 8 to 12 feet, 2/6, 3/6, and 5/- each.

Penzance Sweet Briars.

These lovely hybrids are quite distinct from any class of Rose yet in commerce. Apart from their extreme beauty, they are most interesting, being crosses between the common Sweet Briar and various other Roses, such as Austrian Briar, varieties of gallica, &c. Like their parents, the common Sweet Briar, the foliage is deliciously scented. The flowers are single or semi-double, are of the most beautiful tints and produced in great profusion. The plants are perfectly hardy even in the coldest situations, and possess a robust vigour, bushes four or five years old throwing up shoots of 10, 12, and even 15 feet high; these when covered with flowers of the most delicate shades have a most gorgeous effect.

Pruning.—Apart from thinning the growths where too crowded, and cutting back those that have exceeded the limit of space, but little pruning is required.

Plants from ground, 9d. and 1/- each; 6/- and 9/- per dozen.

Most of the varieties can be supplied in pots at 1/6 each.

- 3984 Rose Bradwardine, clear rose, perfect shape, very profuse ; strong, robust habit.

Austrian, Scotch, and Sweet Briar Roses.

Austrian Briar Roses (R. lutea).—The Austrian Briars are early, distinct in habit, and their blooms are so strikingly beautiful as to make them special favourites with all who see them. They need care in pruning ; the shoots should be left almost full length, bent down, and thinned well out.

Scotch Briar Roses (R. spinosissima).—These Roses all form compact bushes, flowering abundantly early in the season. The flowers are small and globular. Their colours are yellow, white, and various shades of pink, rose, &c.

Pruning.—These Roses should be grown as bushes, about 3 feet or so in height. The young suckers from the base may be shortened back and the old and weakly wood thinned out during March.

Sweet Briar Roses, consisting of R. rubiginosa, the well-known fragrant-leaved sweet briar and its hybrids.

Prune as recommended for Scotch Briar Roses above, during March.

THE "ANTIPEST" KNAPSACK SPRAYER.

For spraying all kinds of plants and Crops, Fruit Trees and Bushes, indoor or outdoor, with Insecticide or Fungicide; for the destruction or prevention of pests and disease; also, for washing with clean water.

For the distribution of liquid disinfectant in Kennels, Pigeon Lofts, &c., and for all purposes where an evenly distributed liquid spray is required.

SPECIFICATION.—Capacity about 3 gallons. Weight about 13 lbs. Copper and brass body. Oil-resisting valves. Coarse, medium, or fine spray, or straight jet. Single or double nozzle. By means of an agitator, the liquid is kept well mixed, thus enabling thin or thick liquids to be used equally well.

All the parts are made to standard patterns, and can be easily and quickly replaced in the event of loss, breakage, or wear.

These Sprayers have been in constant use in our nurseries for some years, and have given the best possible results. Our patrons find them equally useful and effective. The appliances are strongly made, there are very few parts to get out of order, and the internal arrangements are simple and easily accessible. An immense amount of spraying can be done effectively and with ease by the aid of an "ANTIPEST." It can be used equally well by a youth or a man. They are adapted to spray any kind of liquid, and may be used for any and every kind of plant or crop, either under glass or out of doors. For the distribution of liquid disinfectant, or for use with clean water for washing Windows, Carriages, Motors, Bicycles, &c., these Sprayers will be found of the greatest service. The various nozzle caps that are supplied allow of a fine, medium, or coarse spray, as desired; whilst by affixing the jet nozzle, a single uninterrupted stream is obtained. For spraying such crops as Potatoes, the double nozzle will be found a great labour-saver.

PRICE, complete with Nozzle Caps for coarse, medium, or fine Spray, and single or double Nozzle (as desired), 36/6. (Carriage Paid for cash with order only).

NOTE.—If single and double Nozzle are both required, an extra charge of 3/6 will be made.
